“Due Diligence Requirements and Their Implications for Coffee Supply Chains” – Join Us This Thursday
Join us for the last event in the 4C online seminar series “Sustainable Coffee Day II”! This Thursday, 10 June 2021, from 14:00 to 15:30 CEST, we will talk about human rights and environmental due diligence requirements, their potential impact and ways, in which coffee supply chain participants can strengthen their due diligence.

We will start with the latest statistics and trends in sustainable coffee production and consumption by Claudia Meier, Research Institute of Organic Agriculture, FiBL, and Steffany Bermudez, International Institute for Sustainable Development. Isabelle Lemmens, European Coffee Federation, will then present coffee sector’s response to EU due diligence requirements, followed by Norbert Schmitz, 4C, who will talk about implementing proper coffee supply chain due diligence. Finally yet importantly, Fanny Gauttier and Niels Haak, Conservation International, will provide insights into EU action on imported deforestation and discuss the need for a pro-active response from the coffee industry.

We will be happy to see you with us!

Registration Now Open for the 4C Online Trainings 2021

4C is ready to welcome you to the 4C Online Trainings 2021! Here is why these trainings are so highly important:

- Brush up your knowledge of the 4C Code of Conduct: key requirements, traceability, organizing a 4C Unit and Internal Management System,
- Get detailed practical information on 4C certification process for coffee production and chain of custody, as well as risk assessment procedures,
- Test your understanding and practise using 4C tools during multiple group work sessions,
- Learn about new 4C Add-ons for Climate Friendly, Food Security and Gender Equality and their implementation,
- And much more.

4C trainings are especially valuable for auditors and companies, including Managing Entities of the 4C Units, interested producer cooperatives and associations, traders and exporters, roasters and brand owners. Each training consists of three days. New auditors, evaluators and certifiers must participate in a complete three-day training. Others have an opportunity to choose between different days.
